Increasing Sales Prompts New Hire for Wheatstone Corporation

New Bern, NC (June 12, 2006) — Wheatstone Corporation, a world-leading manufacturer of broadcast and studio audio solutions, announces the addition of Martin Burns as Sales Engineer. He will be specializing in the company's expanding television console division.

Burns' career spans over 23 years of combined broadcast technology and customer focused, business-to-business sales and service. Martin began his career in broadcast audio in February of 1984 as a radio trainee at Harrison Systems. At Harrison, he rose to Vice-President of Broadcast Products and later joined GLW as General Sales Manager after the GLW acquisition of the Harrison product line.

Prior to joining Wheatstone, Martin has served in various sales capacities for Siemens Audio (AMS-Neve) for US and Caribbean, Redwood Marketing (Sony, Amek, DigiDesign), Fostex R & D, 360 Systems, and ENCO Systems.

WHEATSTONE CORPORATION is a leading supplier of digital control surfaces, digital audio networks and AOIP automation audio and control interfaces for the broadcast industry. Wheatstone also offers digital routers, signal processors, pre-wiring, studio accessories and furniture.
